Dear AAUW Aurora Area Branch Members,

I hope everyone had a wonderful holiday season and the new year finds you happy and healthy.

Through our two fundraisers, the Aurora Area branch met our goal to donate $1200 to AAUW's Greatest Needs Fund. Thanks to all the members who donated items, set up and ran the garage sale at Linda Seyler's house. Thanks to Vicki Petersen for organizing the Murder Mystery fundraiser at Java Plus, and to all the members who assisted her, promoting the event and to all who attended. Last but not least, thank you to the generous members who made financial contributions. Plans are in the works for a spring fundraiser, "Blind Date with a Book" which will be held on April 5, 2025 with our Tea Party event.

Since my last letter to you, a lot has changed in America. Like many of you, my heart is breaking each time I see the progress in rights that women, girls, and minorities have fought for over the past seventy plus years put in danger of disappearing with the stroke of a pen. I have been watching AAUW webinars and attended zoom meetings about AAUW Priorities in Light of the Election Results to educate myself about what I can do as a citizen. As members of the AAUW it is imperative that we work at a local level and support our organization at the state and national levels to protect the rights that our predecessors fought so hard to win.

I encourage all members to read the e-mails you received from AAUW. I know there are a lot of them, but it is the best way to stay informed about the issues and legislation.

- Visit the national website AAUW.org and watch the webinars.
- AAUWaction.org is a great resource to stay current on legislation.
- Visit the Illinois website – aauw-ilaaauw.net to keep abreast with legislation on the state level.
- Sign up for the 2-minute activist.
- Follow the AAUW on social media and share with your contacts.

The task of defending and advancing gender equity for women and girls may be a daunting one, but I have faith in the intelligence, tenacity, and power of the women of the Aurora Area Branch.

Johanna Byram, President, AAUW Aurora Area Branch

We are extremely frustrated at the National Archivist's refusal to publish the ERA. Her decision to side with the Trump administration and against legal scholars and the American Bar Association is reprehensible.

Dr. Shogan, publish the ERA. Women around the country have waited long enough.

Chief Executive Officer

Join us for AAUW's Winter Member Gathering!

PRESS RELEASES

AAUW reacts to 2024 national election results

November 6, 2024

WASHINGTON – Today, the AAUW (American Association of University Women) responded to Donald J. Trump’s reelection as 47th president of the United States.

“The election results are extremely sobering, especially on the heels of a hyperpartisan, gridlocked Congress,” said Gloria L. Blackwell, CEO, AAUW. “AAUW is committed to holding all elected officials accountable about women’s rights, bodily autonomy, and access to education and economic opportunity, particularly for women of color.”

As president, Trump appointed the three conservative U.S. Supreme Court Justices who supported overturning Roe vs. Wade and women’s right to abortion care. His Supreme Court picks also helped overturn affirmative action in college admission decisions. Colleges and universities have since reported a downturn in students of color being admitted to their institutions, as a result.

This election cycle, AAUW also championed 10 state ballot measures that would codify into state laws and constitutions women’s rights to abortion access without government interference. Of the 10, seven states passed measures to maintain or expand abortion access.

“When women are able to make abortion care decisions for ourselves, we’re able to control our health and economic security,” said Meghan Kissell, AAUW’s senior director for policy and member advocacy. “A second Trump presidency puts this fundamental right further in jeopardy.”

This electoral outcome means AAUW will double-down in its preparation for the Trump administration and Congress. The organization will deliver its agenda for the 119th Congress ahead of the new session.

“A functioning democracy demands work every day of the year,” said Blackwell. “It is now, after an election, when the real work begins. We must come together and continue the fight to advance equity for women.”

AAUW (American Association of University Women) is the nation’s leading organization for equity in higher education and women’s economic empowerment.

Founded in 1881 by women who defied society’s conventions by earning college degrees, AAUW has since worked to increase women’s access, opportunity, and equity in higher education through research, advocacy, and philanthropy of over $146 million, supporting thousands of women scholars. # Fundraising Spring 2025

Get ready for our spring branch fundraiser:

Blind Date with a Book!

This fundraiser will take place during our April branch program,

History of High Tea

1 p.m. Saturday, April 5

Santori Library, Aurora.

What's Blind Date with a Book?

It's a wrapped book with clues teasing what the book is about.

Books will be sold for $10 each.

If you're looking to find new homes for your books, consider donating them for our fundraiser. Just wrap the books and watch your email for tags you can fill out with hints about your book.

Then bring them with to the April program.

You also can drop off unwrapped books at Vicki Petersen's house by Saturday, March 22, if you'd like help with the wrapping and writing brief hints. New and used book donations are welcome. Note to book club members: be sure to note in the hint if you're donating a book club selection.

Professional Development Opportunity for K-12 American History and Civics Education

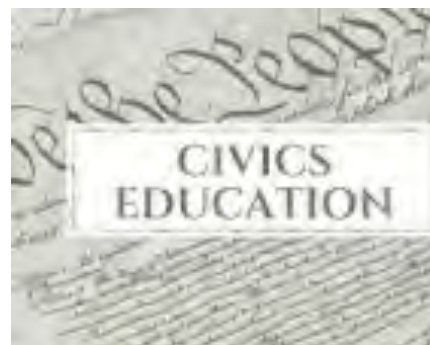

As you know, teaching history and civics is a particular lightning rod—and getting harder as historical facts are being called into question. Educators are sharing that classroom conversations around current events are more challenging due to polarization—the same is true for public library programming and resources. Plus, many K-8 educators do not have formal training or instructional guidance on how/what to teach or integrate content about American history and civics. Similarly, library leaders do not often have formal training on how to support and encourage civic and civil discourse around controversial issues and topics.

I am reaching out today to share a professional development resource for educators that I am hoping you can amplify through your network. JT is working with the Civic Learning Institute (CLI) at Harvard Graduate School of Education, which offers professional learning in history and civics for K-12 educators of all roles and grade levels. These resources may also be helpful to library and nonprofit leaders. These four-week online courses are taught by content experts with live sessions and teacher coaching. Participants who complete the $15 course will earn a certificate of completion from Harvard Graduate School of Education. Specific CLI courses help educators navigate these challenges, while others take a deep dive into specific historical events. Upcoming courses include:

- A New Birth of Freedom: The Gettysburg Address (registration closes 2/14)
- Student-led Civics Projects: Using Project-based Learning to Develop Civic Knowledge, Skills and Dispositions (registration closes 3/6)
- Superpower: The US and the Vietnam War (registration closes 3/13)
- A More Complete American Story: The History of Jim Crow (registration closes 7/1)
- Digital Competency in the Age of AI (registration closes 7/1)
- Difficult Conversations in the Classroom (registration closes 7/1)

Checks:

(2019 AAUW $1,200.00 – not cashed yet)

Current AAUW Funds Balance: $1,546.32 (will be $346.32 once check clears)

In December, we deposited an additional $230 of fundraiser donations. This brings our total money raised to $1,062 between the garage sale, murder mystery and miscellaneous donations. Our branch submitted a $1,200 donation to national for the Greatest Needs Fund. In previous years, we've seen delays in these checks clearing as national gets flooded with end of year donations. We can follow up with national to ensure we'll get credit for 2024. Our spring fundraiser will be Blind Date with a Book during our branch meeting on Saturday, April 5. Donated books will be wrapped with clues teasing what the book is about. The books will be sold for $10 each. Members are welcome to bring wrapped books with brief hints to the April branch meeting. New or used books are welcome! Members also can drop off books at Vicki's house by Saturday,

Since the inauguration, everything the AAUW stands for is in danger of being decimated by the stroke of a pen. It is important that members are aware of the issues that the National and State organization are working on. Time to buckle down, read our emails, checking the state and national website.

Donation to greatest needs fund $1,200 was sent mid-December and the check has not cleared the bank - wasn't reflected in year-end report. Johanna will check with funds director to see if it will be updated in the report.

There are proposed public policy changes on the AAUW website that are available for comment by January 29, 2025. They include adjusted priorities and structured changes that are intended to prioritize policy based on what the administration is targeting. Eg. Womens issues, ERA, DEI, Public Education

Proposed increases in National dues would amount to $5.00 each year for the next 5 years. You can comment on this also by January 29, 2025. State and Branch dues are staying the same. Lifetime members no longer pay for National dues so their dues will remain at $31. These increases are necessary because AAUW can no longer get corporate grants because the membership is not open; we are viewed as an exclusive organization.

The NCCWSL College leadership workshops held in Washington every year will now be handled by NASPA, an organization that is very experienced in presenting large student conferences.
